TV KEY PREVIEWS

David Brinkley's Journal—Dave interviews James D. Donovan, a New York lawyer who doesn't specialize in "cloak and dagger" cases, but has them thrust upon him. While discussing his defense of the Rudolf Abel case, he talks about the lawyer's duty vis-a-vis the unpopular cause and, during a recap of that trial, notes a phrase of prophecy come true. His comments on the Abel-Powers exchange, and his personal reactions to U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, are of paramount interest at this time. 10:30, WRC-4.
